Please consider the following principles on grading standard designated by MEXT when host institutions recommend its' applicant(s) to this scholarship program.

[GPA requirement] IMPORTANT!

To our partners: Be sure to applicant's GPA meets MEXT scholarship GPA requirement.

Applicants must have minimum GPA 2.30/3.0 or higher to be able to be eligible for MEXT scholarship.
Please calculate your GPA referring the file titled "99_Grading standard example designated by MEXT"

Applicant's GPA must be calculated using the MEXT system. If the GPA less than 2.30/3.0, you can not apply for MEXT scholarship.

Applicant's grades must be included in this calculation. As different universities may use different grading systems, MEXT has prepared the following table of examples to demonstrate its calculation system for converting applicants' GPAs to the MEXT GPA standard. Your MEXT-calculated GPA is rounded down to the third decimal place. Academic performance should be based on regular course performance. Do not include the grades of research students (non-regular courses, Japanese language education institutions, etc.). For graduates, calculate the academic performance of the final academic background, and for current students, calculate the academic performance of the course currently enrolled.

If your home university does not use any credit system, please do the following to calculate your GPA:

- Using the above scheme, add your grade points for every course you have completed.
- Then divide it by the total number of courses you have completed.

(5) Study Area:

The study area must be in the same or related field as the applicant has studied in his/her undergraduate level. In addition, the study area must be the field that Chuo University is able to instruct him/her.

2. Screening at Chuo University

Screening procedures at Chuo University will be done as follows:

- 1) All candidates are required to choose host professors according to their major.
They may choose up to two possible professors.
-Database of Chuo professors:
<https://researchers.chuo-u.ac.jp/scripts/websearch/index.htm>
-Information on Graduate schools: <http://www.chuo-u.ac.jp/academics/>
- 2) The International Center will forward all application materials to the relevant Graduate Schools.
- 3) Each prospective host professor will receive the application materials through the office of the Graduate School and review them, and then the professor will decide if he/she will be able to accept the candidate as a research student.

In case that a candidate is appropriate for a research student, the professor will contact a candidate by e-mail to have further information by asking the purpose of study, field of study and so on. After this e-mail correspondence (including online interview), the professor will make final decision if he/she accepts a candidate as a full time non-degree student.

If a candidate doesn't contact the professor by the designated date, he/she will miss the opportunity to be recommended. A candidate will receive e-mail from the professor in from late January to early February 2023.

If the professor decides that a candidate is not appropriate for a research student, Chuo University cannot receive him/her as a research student.

- 4) Based on the application documents and the decision of each prospective host professor, the International Center Committee will make a decision on whether candidates be recommended to MEXT as a candidate of scholarship grantee.
